

TALENT ADMINISTRATOR – ENGLAND BOXING

Introduction

How would you like to play your part in uncovering the next Nicola Adams or Anthony Joshua?

England Boxing has a proud history of producing champions who go on to shine on the Olympic and world stage.

Those boxers get to develop their skills as teenagers through the England Talent Pathway, of which you could become an integral part as the programme's Talent Administration Assistant.

You will get to meet undoubted stars of the future and, as part of your administrative duties, help organise their appearances at international competitions across Europe and further afield as England bids to keep up its medal success of recent after a break from competition due to Covid-19.

As the Talent Department seeks to create a more stable administrative base, there will be a strong focus on strengthening communications with boxers, clubs and coaches and putting long term development plans in place.

The exciting and fast-paced role is based at the England Boxing head office at the English Institute of Sport in Sheffield and is full-time and permanent position.

Background

England Boxing is the National Governing Body for the one of the oldest sports in the world and one which has featured in the ancient and modern Olympics since 1904.

With its own heritage going back to 1880, and its first national championship starting in 1881, the organisation is responsible for promoting, regulating and developing the sport at all levels, from grassroots through to the England talent pathway, and, in turn, passing prospective medallists on to GB Boxing. The organisation is a member of IBA and EUBC, the World and European governing bodies respectively.

England Boxing's mission is to protect, promote and support amateur boxing in England at all levels. Alongside delivering community programmes and activity in inner cities and local communities, the sport also has a significant record in being successful in securing medals at international championships.

As a result, England Boxing is seeking to employ an Administration Assistant to manage the data around the Talent Programme and cover administrative duties, as outlined in the job description and person specification below.
